Mrs. Henry Devore and daughters, who have been visiting her mother, Mrs. John Helmer of West Second street, have returned to their home at Postoria, Ohio.

The reason given for discontinuing all excursion business on the C. and O. for this season was that the excursions interfered with freight traffic, which was being held up at intervals. The coal traffic of the road has been gaining greatly in the past month, and there was danger of congestion unless the excursions were called off.

SPEAKING AT OPERA-HOUSE

Yesterday afternoon Washington Opera-house was overflowing—and hundreds turned away—with a fine representative gathering of ladies and gentlemen assembled to hear Judge E. C. O'Rear on the tobacco question. The meeting was opened with a gem of an introductory by Hon. J. N. Kehoe, who was followed by Judge O'Rear in a masterly, clean-cut address. The speech was in line with the spirit of the Burley Tobacco Society, and the necessity of standing shoulder to shoulder in the pooling of the 1910 crop. His speech was well received and filled the mission of his coming here.

Get This Grade
of Paris Green

Commence on the Tobacco Worms early. The longer you wait, the more harm they do, the more difficult it is to get rid of them and the greater the cost. The various grades and brands of Paris Green differ widely in strength and composition and differ just as much in results. We have the best grade on the market.

It Kills Because It Is Pure and Full Strength

It is the kind that goes farthest and does most, the kind that kills, the kind you can rely on. Costs no more than uncertain brands—is apt to cost less, because less is required and it never fails to do the work.

THE PECK-WILLIAMSON UNDERFEED
FURNACES AND BOILERS

Were living in perfect comfort all over the house. The Underfeed coal burning way—fuel fed from below—all the fire on top—insures as much clean, even heat from cheapest slack as highest priced coal which ordinary heating plants require. This enables Underfeed users to

SAVE 1/2 TO 3/4 OF COAL BILLS

Mr. J. E. Crider, President of the Crider Creamery Company, Fredonia, Ky., relates his Underfeed experience thus:

"We installed one of your No. 739 Underfeed furnaces in our 12-room house about two years ago. We have found the furnace very satisfactory indeed. The furnace is extremely economical, fires easily and the heat is quite evenly distributed throughout the various rooms. We use nut and slack coal for fuel with perfect results and much prefer the Underfeed to any heating device with which we are familiar."

Send for our FREE book about UNDERFEED Furnaces and Boilers and let us PROVE that it will pay you to discard old-fashioned heating methods and install the satisfactory dividend-paying Underfeed. Heating plans and services of our Engineering Department all FREE. Write today.

WOMAN
ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

NEEDS ATTENTION

Maddox avenue is all torn up and in a terribly bad condition, caused by the hard rains of the early spring. The road is impassable for vehicles of any kind, and residents along the line of the street are in a quandary as to getting their supply of winter coal and other needs. Chairman Clooney of the Internal Improvement Committee should take a look, and then act.

An old man was side-swiped by an engine at the C. and O. Depot this morning, but escaped serious injury.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Council met in regular session last evening, but owing to the fact that Labor Day is looked upon as a legal holiday the meeting was perfunctory in character and the general business was passed over, to be transacted at the adjourned meeting, which convenes this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

On motion of Member S. R. Harover, $50 was voted to assist in the construction of a concrete walk to be put down at the Cemetery leading up from the car line. The walk divides the old and new Cemeteries and is an improvement greatly needed.

The attention of Council was called to the fact that a fence was being built in the rear of the old Campbell property in Fifth street that encroached some three feet on the pavement. The Mayor was instructed to stop work on same until the rights of the city were fully ascertained.

Mrs. Nichols of West Second street was placed upon the pension list at the rate of $4 per month, the first month to call for $8, being two months past due.

JOSEPH A. DAVIS.

Mr. Joseph A. Davis, another of Maysville's old landmarks, passed away this morning at 3:30 o'clock at his home, corner Second and Commerce streets, after a protracted illness, aged 73 years.

During the Civil War he was a member of the Sixteenth Kentucky Infantry and served in the Army over four years, receiving an honorable discharge at the close of the bloody strife.

His wife preceded him to the grave many years ago and he is survived by two sons—William H. and Charles B. Davis.

The funeral will take place from his late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

LINOLEUM DURABILITY

The trouble with most linoleum is that it is made from die cut color blocks pieced together; that in use the continuous grinding of dirt and the seeping of scrub water into the joints rots and loosens the blocks and starts the ruin of the linoleum. The linoleum we handle is not die cut but moulded in one solid even piece without a crack or joint from end to end. It is made for hard wear and for this greater durability you pay no higher price. 50c and 60c a Square Yard.

FIREMAN INJURED

Last night about 8:30 o'clock Zed Cracraft, a fireman on an Eastbound C. and O. freight train, while the engine was taking water at the C. and O. Depot, fell from the tender and was seriously injured. Several of his ribs were broken and he was otherwise bruised up by his 10-foot fall. He was removed to the Huntington Hospital last night.

LEG BROKEN

Mr. George Soister and Mr. Jacob Cabilish were driving up Third street yesterday noon and when near Court street the horse attached to the buggy slipped and fell on the brick street, breaking its left hind leg. The animal was fine gaited and could go a mile in 24 and was valued at $300. Mr. Soister, owner of the horse, had it removed to the Ohio side, and will endeavor to save it.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Weller of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mrs. Carrie Culler of 325 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address in Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 567 Caldwell building, Monticello, N. Y.

Making Friends for Father

By CRITTENDEN MARRIOTT

(Copyright, 1909 by Associated Literary Press.)

When the faintness passed away Margery found herself walking in to dinner on the arm of an ugly young man whom she was sure she had never before seen. She was conscious that she was talking, too, though she could not remember a word that she had been saying.

This might have alarmed her if it had not been that she could not remember anything that had happened in the last half-hour—not since Miss Whiting had telephoned that she could not come to the dinner, which was then ready to be served.

Her mother had rushed up to her room. "Margery! Margery!" she clattered. "Throw aside those lessons, quick! You'll have to come to dinner to-night. Miss Whiting can't come and Mr. Drexel is horribly superstitious and he'll be worried to death if we make him sit down thirteen at table and your father is very anxious to make a good impression on him. And the Princess Lavloff and Lord Merton are coming and I wouldn't have anything go wrong for the world. You've got lots of sense, even if you are only 17 and you'll pull through somehow—and anyhow you'll have to come. I haven't time to help you dress; I must be down to receive people. But I'll send Louise to you. She is getting out my blue gown now. Thank goodness! you take after your father and are big enough to wear my clothes. Hurry! Hurry!"

Then Mrs. Haight rushed out of the room and Louise had rushed in and Margery had rushed into the blue gown and the next thing she really knew was when she was clinging despairingly to the arm of the ugly young man and wondering what on earth she had been saying.

The young man did not seem to notice her confusion. When he looked down—he was a tall young man—when he looked down into her flower-like face, she smiled, instinctively, and he seemed entirely satisfied and rattled on. By the time they were seated she began to understand his words.

"MOTHER SAID— THERE I'VE TOLD YOU NOW!"

"I caught your name," he was saying, "but I didn't understand much else. You are a sister of Mrs. Haight, aren't you?"

Margery's heart bounded. If this young man took her for her mother's sister she could not look so painfully young as she had feared.

"No; not a sister!" she stammered. "No? But the name is the same," insisted the other. "Surely you are some connection."

A gleam of fun came into Margery's eyes. "Yes," she prevaricated. "We are connections—by marriage."

"I knew it. You look like her—very much. What a lovely woman she is. I envy Haight whenever I see her."

Margery glanced at her mother with new eyes.

"But you must be a good deal younger than she."

"Am I?" Her companion turned and looked down on her and Margery saw that he was not the boy that she had supposed he was. "Well, I suppose I am. But what's a mere matter of time, after all?"

"Why haven't I seen you here before?"

"Margery's eyes danced. 'I've never been asked here before,' she quibbled. 'What! Why—I can hardly believe it! Never before? Why not? I don't mean to be personal, but—'"

"Oh, mother—Mrs. Haight had her reasons. Good reasons, too. Maybe I'll tell you about them some time." Margery was beginning to feel very much at her ease. Her words came with a rush, half choked by a gurgling laugh that she could not repress.

The tall young man looked pained. "Don't do that, please!" he exclaimed. "Do what?"

"Laugh like that!" he smiled. "I can't stand it!"

Margery gurgled again. Then she glanced at the head of the table and caught her mother's eye beaming approval and laughed once more.

"There you go again," murmured the young man, reproachfully. "But about those reasons. If Mrs. Haight didn't have you before, why did she have you to-night?"

"To-night? Because—oh! because of Mr. Drexel."

"Mr. Drexel?" The ugly young man looked amazed.

"Yes! Do you know him?" Point him out to me, please. I want to see him."

The other glanced across the table. "I don't see him," he observed.

"Don't you? Well, he must be here somewhere. I know, for I wouldn't have been here to-night except for him. You see, pa—Mr. Haight is very anxious to make a very good impression on him—it's some business affair, I think—and so—"

"And so they chose you to do the work."

Margery looked up, startled. She had not thought her companion's voice could take so stern a note. His eyes, too, were steely. Ashamed, she faltered.

"What—what is wrong?" she asked, pitifully. "What have I done?"

"You, child! Nothing! Only they did not teach you your part well."

"My part? What do you mean?"

"Didn't Mrs. Haight tell you to try to beguile Mr. Drexel?"

Margery's eyes opened wide. "No, indeed!" she exclaimed. "I don't even know him! But he is dreadfully superstitious, you know, and when Miss Whiting telephoned at the last minute that she couldn't come, it would have made thirteen at table if I hadn't taken her place. Mother said—there, I've told you now—mother said I would pull through somehow, and even if I did blunder it would be better than making Mr. Drexel uncomfortable, as he would be if there were thirteen at table. And I have blundered—I see that, though I don't know how. Why! what—"

For the young man's laugh had rung out quite naturally again. "Blundered!" he exclaimed. "Not a bit of it. You've been the life of the dinner. I must—"

He broke off as, at a sign from Mrs. Haight, the chairs were pushed back and the guests arose. Then, as he stood aside to let Margery pass, he went on, rapidly:

"You will be in the parlor, won't you? I haven't half finished this delightful talk."

But Margery shook her head. "I've got to study my lessons," she answered, ruefully. "Mr. Drexel won't mind thirteen in the parlor."

"Yes, he will. He'll mind it very much. I know he will. Promise me that you'll stay."

"I'll try!"

As the girl passed out, the young man moved up close to his host.

"By George, Fred!" he exclaimed, "your daughter is perfectly charming. When does she come out?"

Mr. Haight smiled. "Man proposes, but woman disposes," he replied, sententiously. "Apply to Mrs. Haight for all information about Margery. I believe, though, she expects to break her shell next winter."

"She'll make a success, all right. By the way, Haight, I don't want to intrude business at dinner, but if you'll drop around to my office to-morrow, I guess we can fix up that deal of yours. I think it will be a good thing for both of us."

Biliousness

"I have used your valuable Carecarts and I find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them to everyone. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family."—Edward A. Marx, Albany, N. Y.

THOS. J. CHENOWETH and J. C. PECOR, Druggists.

Doctors Markham, who for some years were practicing osteopathy in this city and who left on account of the health of Dr. Markham, have returned to Kentucky and located in Lexington. The many friends of this excellent and professional couple in Maysville will be glad to know of their nearness, and bespeak from the good citizens of Lexington a hospitable welcome and a generous patronage for them. Not only are they skilled in the science of osteopathy, but are so well born and so charming socially as to wonderfully ingratiate themselves immediately into the social fabric of any community into which they may go.

WANT HIM BACK

The Official Board of the Third Street Methodist Episcopal Church are anxious for the return of Rev. F. W. Harrop as their Pastor, and on the eve of his departure for Paintsville to attend the annual Conference, he was given a letter requesting that he again be assigned here.

Mason County Court.

A paper, bearing date of September 9th, 1900, and purporting to be the last will and testament of Mary Jordan, deceased, was produced in Court and partly proven by A. M. J. Cochran, one of the attesting witnesses. It was ordered filed and passed for further proof.

A paper, bearing date of January 29th, 1903, and purporting to be the last will of William Luttrell, deceased, was produced and filed. The handwriting of said paper was proven to be wholly that of said William Luttrell by W. W. Ball and James Threlkeld, and the same was made a matter of record. Fannie P. Luttrell, widow of William Luttrell, named in his will as Executrix, qualified as such, with Alex. Duke and W. W. Ball as sureties on bond. Alex. Duke, John W. Bramel and O. G. Callahan were appointed appraisers of above estate.

Ellen Knox Dunn qualified as Administratrix of John Dunn, deceased, with Frank P. O'Donnell as surety on bond.

The inventory and appraisement of London Grover was produced in Court and ordered filed and recorded.

Julian F. Lewis was appointed Administrator of Cornelia P. Lewis, deceased, and qualified as such, with W. H. Moore surety on bond.

A paper, bearing date of March 16th, 1907, purporting to be the last will and testament of Martha Daniels, deceased, was proven by C. J. Conlon and G. C. Keith, witnesses to said instrument, and same was ordered to probate.

THE TENDERFOOT FARMER

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak," the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."
